

UConn Physician Faculty Learning from Teaching Medical Students and Residents/Residents

Verification Form

The UConn School of Medicine's Office of Continuing Medical Education as an accredited CME provider may award AMA PRA Category 1 Credit™ to physician faculty to recognize the learning associated with the preparation for and teaching of medical students and residents/fellows in LCME/ACGME accredited facilities/programs or an accredited AMA PRA Category 1 Credit™ activity as approved by the AMA Council on Medical Education.

Physicians may claim credit for a variety of interactions. Types of teaching activities include, but are not limited to, formal presentations to medical students, residents; development of cases, clinical problems; supervising clinical or simulated activities; instruction on clinical or other skills; assessing learner performance (clinical or simulation settings); mentoring QI or PI projects; and mentoring of scholarly activities.

To learn more about Learning from Teaching please go to <https://learning.uchc.edu/>.

Name of Person Seeking Credit: _____

Institutional Affiliation: _____

Email: _____

Date(s): _____

Description of teaching activity sufficient to verify the information.

VERIFICATION SECTION

Attestation: I attest that person above person seeking CME credit for learning from teaching was in a position to teach UConn medical students and/or residents/fellows in an LCME/ACGME accredited facilities/program or an accredited AMA PRA Category 1 Credit™ activity during the time period indicated. Please note the verifier needs to be someone in a position of authority that can attest that the person was indeed in a position to teach as described. Examples include, program director, course director, clerkship director, department chair, department division chief or similar level, or someone from the GME/UME office.

Name of Verifier: _____

Organization/Title: _____

Email: _____

Signature: _____

* Typed signatures will not be accepted, please use a hand signature or another form of formal electronic signatures (such as PDF certified signatures).

IMPORTANT: Send Completed Verification Form With Your Claim Form Submission